

Pickering Crest and Coat of Arms

Pickering families from around the world have been lucky enough to have had many heirlooms passed down to them from their ancestors. Some of these heirlooms include crystal stemware, rings, silver services and tapestries. Even though there are very small differences in the images, there is a united theme to the design.

This page is designed just to be a catalog of what has been sent to me as of 2004. Further research should tell a better story, but for now, these images are just beautiful to look at by themselves.

Even though there are slight differences in the shields, the unifying image is of the “lions gamb erect erased ducal crown” of the crest.

Peter Pickering handed down to Alfhard Kowallek, Germany
Features: Lion facing left with crown, ermine background

(Left) Crest ent by Peter Pickering of Indonesia via internet.
Features: Lion facing left with crown, ermine background

(Right) Coat of Arms for Robert Pickering of Walford
Features: Lion facing left with crown, plain background eight plates surround

Pickering Arms, Thelwell, Cheshire
Features: Lion facing front with crown, plain background, eight “plates” surround

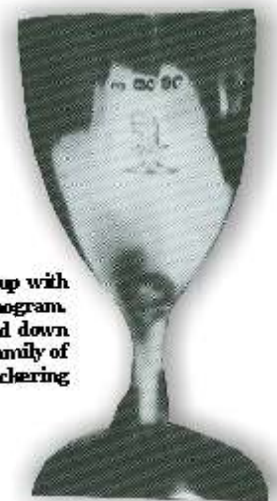

Tapestry by Sarah Pickering (unknown) , 1753
Features: Lion facing left with crown, ermine background

Etched crystal goblet inherited by Jason Friend (we have not connected with our family yet.)
Features: Lion facing left with crown, ermine background

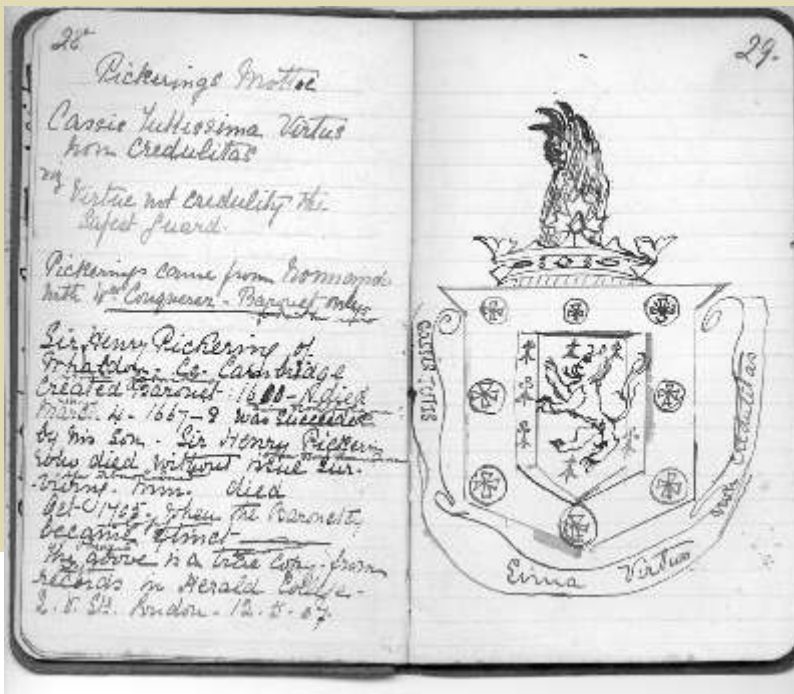

(Right) Coat of Arms inherited through family of Alexander John Pickering, son of Charles William Harrison Pickering
Features: Lion facing left with no crown, ermine background eight plates surround

(Right) Silver cup with crest and CWHP monogram. Heirloom handed down through the family of Alexander John Pickering

Pickering Crest and Coat of Arms

Notebook sketch drawn by Florence Pickering (1858-1941) daughter of Carl Edgar Pickering, granddaughter of Peter Pickering. Notebook compliments of Alfhard Kowallek.

Ring inherited through the family of Alexander John Pickering.

[Note from Connie Pickering Stover] This is a ring worn by my father and its story has always intrigued me. It was my interest in this ring that started me on the road to the compilation of this Pickering Family History.

This group of rings and molds were inherited through Peter Pickering's family. Features: Lion facing left, no crown, ermine background, eight plates surround. Photos compliments of Alfhard Kowallek, Germany